The Life and Death of Secondary Education for All: Was it But a Dream After All? (Hardback)

By Richard Pring

Taylor Francis Ltd, United Kingdom, 2012. Hardback. Book Condition: New. 236 x 158 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book. Is there life after death for secondary education? This book focuses upon the quality of learning. Reform , so called, too often begins with qualifications, examinations, institutional provision, paths of progression. All those are very important, but their value lies in the support they give to learners and their learning in its different forms. One needs to start with the aims of education and then with what it means to learn (practically, theoretically, morally) and with the very many different needs of the learners. That is what this book aims to do. In so doing, it will be both philosophical in analysis and empirical in example. So much is happening from down below that goes unrecognised by policy makers. But innovations too often get hampered by government interventions, by a bureaucratic mentality and by failure to spread good practice. The general argument of the book, therefore, will be illustrated throughout with detailed references to practical developments in schools, colleges, the third sector, youth work, independent training providers and professional bodies - across several countries. The book builds on Education for...
