Excerpt: . . . ordinary work in connection with local centres, but, on the contrary, to lectures directly organized and superintended by officials of the Central Board at Queen Margaret College, Glasgow. And for this result, in turn, thanks are to be given to the Glasgow University Court which has, at the request of the Board, granted the use of rooms in College free of charge. Should the suggestions to be made later with respect to the future of the University Extension Scheme ever take practical shape, it will become necessary for the Central Board to engage a paid secretary. In those circumstances it is to be hoped that the University Court may be able still further to exercise generosity and guarantee the Board an annual grant, say up to 100, for at least five years, or until such time as the reconstructed scheme has become quite self-supporting financially. III. History Of The Extension Movement In Scotland. (1) Early Efforts. In the pamphlet issued by the University of St. Andrews, at the outset of its extension work in 1888, a brief sketch of the history of the movement in Scotland is given, from which the following passage is extracted. Undoubtedly the earliest University Extension Movement in Scotland was that which St. Andrews started in Dundee in the year 1874. Several Dundee citizens generously contributed to a guarantee fund, and five courses of lectures were delivered by professors of the University of St. Andrews--three of them of twenty lectures...
