Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Protection to American Labor: From the Overland Monthly, October, 1886, San Francisco, Cal First. - Ought American labor to be protected? Second. - What ought that protection to be? Our natural rights, philosophy, and experience concur in answering the first of these questions in the affirmative. Of our natural or moral rights, as interpreted by the highest forms of civilization, none are paramount to those of labor. The great interest of this great country, the producing cause of all prosperity, says Daniel Webster, is labor, labor, labor. The government was made to protect this industry; to give it both encouragement and security. It is a universal law that, by means of labor, man subsists, betters his condition, acquires those things, whether real or ideal in character, that minister to his happiness. From this standpoint the rights of labor are seen to be equivalent to those of life itself. In other words, the rights of labor are the rights of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness vouchsafed to man by his Creator. Government failing to...
